EDMONTON BULLETIN, JAN. 16, 1892.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON ALBERTA.

The special committee composed of all the members from the District of Alberta, requesters specially pertaining to that district, submitted the following report to the assembly:

1. That in our opinion, sufficient attention is not given to the development of the mineral wealth of Alberta.

It might be pointed out that in every State and Territory traversed by the Rocky Mountains from Mexico northwards to the international boundary, mining has been carried on to a very great extent. In Montana alone the annual mineral production far exceeds that of the entire Dominion of Canada. We may assume that production has been as liberal to Alberta as to those States and Territories to her south, which are linked together by the same chain of mountains and it is only for us to draw attention to the wonderful growth and development of California, Colorado and Montana in order to show the advantages that would accrue to these Territories in the event of Alberta's mineral wealth becoming developed. Her mines may in time reveal themselves, but in the interests of our own generation, we would suggest a more active policy, by—

(a) Having a more complete system of regulations prepared and published in the various mining centres of the Western States and Territories.

This would help to overcome a false impression, which we understand, exists in those places regarding our laws.

(b) The establishment of a properly equipped Mining Bureau in some central point, say Calgary.

(c) The establishment of subsidiary Mining Bureaus in some of the Dominion Lands and Timber offices where specimens, statistics and other useful mining information may be found.

(d) Endeavoring to arrange with the Canadian Pacific railway for space in the smoking compartments of their sleeping coaches for a very small cabinet of specimens, accompanied by a neat, concise and attractive pamphlet containing analyses and other matter referring to those specimens and locality from which they came.

2. That owing to the growing settlements in the grazing districts, a change is desirable both in the existing leases and in the system of leasing lands. The existence of a large number of grazing leases is a great obstacle to the settlement of an important part of Alberta. The enormous acreage covered by these leases is altogether out of proportion to the actual needs of the leaseholders.

While admitting the existence of certain vested rights in the leaseholders, it must not be forgotten that valuable privileges have been granted them, under a policy which is now clearly detrimental to the best interests of the country, upon conditions, which, in majority of cases, have not been fulfilled by them. Public policy and convenience now demand the earliest possible throwing open for settlement of large portions of the country now covered by grazing leases, and the government of Canada will be justified in using every means in their power, not inconsistent with good faith, to bring about that result.

In every case in which a leaseholder under an old grazing lease has not strictly complied with the conditions of the lease, he should be obliged to give up the old lease at once and to take the place a lease under the new regulations, which would permit of all or any portion of the leased lands being withdrawn from the operation of the lease as might be required by the government for sale and settlement. Other leaseholders under the old form of lease, should be given two years' notice, required by the lease and offered a continuation of grazing rights under the new regulations.

Hereafter the settlement of the country should be the first consideration of the government, and any system or policy of the past, which is an obstacle to settlement, should be done away with or reversed as rapidly as a fair regard for vested rights and interests will allow.

We believe that the policy of the government in regard to the grazing lease system has been largely due to mistaken ideas on the agricultural capacity of Southern Alberta. The government has no doubt depended for its information on officials who should be able to give accurate information in this respect, and it is a matter of regret that false and unfavorable impressions have been persistently created and spread abroad by the public utterances of the principal quarantine officer of the Dominion, who is largely interested in the continuation of the grazing lease system, as the lease of some of the largest and most valuable parts of the district.

3. That the existing quarantine lands consisting of a belt 12 miles deep, following the international boundary throughout the district, are unnecessarily extensive.

It would be sufficient for the purposes of quarantine to reserve blocks of, say, four townships in this belt, at convenient points where cattle trails intersect the international boundary. This would leave the balance of the belt available for sale and settlement.

4. That owing to the rapid development of the coal mining industry, the duty will devolve upon the Northwest Assembly of passing an Ordinance regulating the working of coal mines and the Federal government derives all the revenue from these mines, it is deemed proper that it should provide in future regulations for the Northwest, a sum sufficient for the maintenance of an inspector or other officer to carry out the provisions of such an ordinance.

5. That we would call attention to the continued complaints which come from certain settlers in the Rocky National Park in regard to Government dealings with the Indians. Rightly or wrongly these settlers believe that the government have committed a breach of faith in dealing with them, and some steps should be taken to remove this impression. We would suggest that such settlers, as can show to a reasonable extent, that they believed themselves to be purchasing lots outright when they made their first payment, should be allowed to complete the purchase. And we would further recommend that in the interest of the Park itself, the lots on the north side of the river, on the townsite at Banff, should be opened for purchase.

7. That the completion of the Calgary and Edmonton railway to the Saskatchewan river has had a very great effect already in developing Northern Alberta, but owing to the termination of the road being on the south bank of the river, while the principal region to be developed and whose trade now furnished the principal traffic of the road is on the north side of the river, across the Saskatchewan at that point is an absolute necessity if the country is to receive the full benefit of the construction of the railway in facilitating its trade and increasing its development.

And finally in making these recommendations the committee have decided not to ask the House to adopt this report, as in the opinion of the committee representations of this kind more properly made by the localities interested, rather than by the Assembly at large and it is asking more of the Assembly than is altogether right to invite it to commit itself to proposals that foreign to the general work of the House.

C. A. MAGRATH,
Chairman.

The Court of Appeals, in Toronto, deliver judgment January 7 in the case of the Attorney-General of the Dominion against the Attorney-General of Ontario to determine whether the law passed by the Ontario government giving the lieutenant-governor of Ontario the prerogative of pardoning and remitting penalties for offences against provincial laws was constitutional. The Chancery division upheld the law, and later the Court of Appeal reaffirmed that decision, holding that the law was valid under the British North America Act.

But twenty-four rinks of the seventy-five that were expected from the States to compete in the international brier, which occurred in Toronto on the 8th, put in an appearance. The unfavorable weather of December caused the majority of intending visitors to abandon the idea of coming. The ice on that day, however, was all that could be desired, and those who did come were amply rewarded for the risk they ran. The play of the visitors was far superior to that exhibited in previous matches, but the Canadians, as usual, gained the day. The aggregate scores were: Canada, 562; United States, 408. In 1921 Canada won by 249 points.
